RE: ATAG SHR-15 Boiler Installations – Gasket Replacement

August 2011

Dear Householder,

It's important for reasons of safety that you have your gas boiler serviced annually by a Registered Gas Installer (RGI).

If your gas boiler is an ATAG SHR-15 then it's imperative that the gasket that secures the burner to the heat exchanger is replaced as required by the manufacturers at least every four years. If this gasket has not been replaced on your gas boiler yet, it should be replaced immediately as your gas boiler is now more than six years old.

Failure to replace this gasket may lead to your gas boiler releasing flue gases into the location where the gas boiler is fitted. As the owner/occupier of the property you are responsible for the safe upkeep and maintenance of the gas installation at your premise.

Act today by contacting a Registered Gas Installer in your area to have your boiler serviced and this gasket replaced.

To find the list of Registered Gas Installers visit www.rgii.ie or phone 1850 454 454

Please show this letter to your Registered Gas Installer (RGI) prior to the commencement of the servicing works.

The RGI will provide you with a conformance certificate on completion of the works.

Yours sincerely,

William Wilson
